ON THE PACIFIC COAST

Resolutions of the Viticultural Commission.

THE IRRIGATION CONGRESS

Prominent Editor Dead—Carshops Close—Wreck of a Vessel.

SAN FRANCISCO, October 14.—The following resolutions were adopted by the executive committee of the state board of viticultural commissioners yesterday:

"Resolved, By the executive committee of the state board of viticultural commissioners, that this board heartily endorses the efforts of the raisin packers of Fresno to retain the duty on raisins imported into the United States, and that this board deems that any reduction in the duty would be attended by loss on the part of domestic producers and be it

"Resolved, That this board favors the placing of a duty of 2½ cents per pound upon all Zante currants imported into the United States as a means of extending the low grade domestic raisins; and be it

"Resolved, That these resolutions be sent to the Pacific coast delegation in congress, to the ways and means committee and to the President."

THE IRRIGATIONISTS.

United States Surveyor Powell Badly Scored.

LOS ANGELES, October 14.—At the irrigation congress today Major Powell, head United States geological surveyor, was unmercifully scored by the delegate for his speech last night in which he said there was not enough water to irrigate all the arid lands.

At the afternoon session the amended report of the committee on resolutions was adopted. The report with a few exceptions was like the original one. The section was adopted declaring water in natural channels and beds public property and that when necessary the vested rights therein may be condemned for public uses. Another section was adopted advising each state in the arid domain to enact laws for the supervision and development of irrigation.

Resolutions were also adopted asking the advancement on the supreme court calendar of the case testing the constitutionality of the Wright irrigation law; appointing Emory, of Kansas, national lecturer on irrigation; urging state and territorial governments to provide remuneration for irrigation commissioners; fixing the basis of representation at the next session and the organization of an executive committee.

F. L. Allen, of Los Angeles, and W. E. Smith, of Utah, were appointed members at large of the executive committee. Governor Thomas was elected to represent Utah, S. P. Heintzleman, New Mexico; J. T. McWilliams, South Dakota. The selection of the next place of meeting was left to the executive committee.

Went Ashore.

SAN PEDRO, Cal., October 14.—The steamer Newbern, running between San Francisco and Mexican ports, went ashore in a heavy fog between here and Redondo this morning. She is likely to become a total loss. The crew and passengers were landed in safety. Large quantities of bullion, which was a portion of her cargo, are being brought here in boats.

Pacific Bank Affairs.

SAN FRANCISCO, October 14.—The supreme court today granted a petition of the bank commissioners for a writ of prohibition preventing Judge Levy from renewing his order declaring the Pacific bank insolvent and appointing the sheriff receiver. This leaves the settlement of the bank's affairs to the bank commissioners instead of Sheriff McDade.

Accused Dynamiters.

SAN FRANCISCO, October 14.—John P. Hansen, the man accused of placing dynamite in the cylinder head of the tug Ethel and Marion in April last, came up for a hearing in Judge Joachimsen's court this morning. The prisoner made a plea for immediate hearing, when the prosecution asked for a continuance of two days. A continuance was granted.

Rather Gloomy.

CARSON, Nev., October 14.—The Virginia & Truckee railroad shops closed down today and nearly the entire force were laid off. The car shops, foundry and blacksmith shops were closed. Only three or four are now employed in the machine shops. The shut down is due to the inoperation of the mines on the Comstock.

Street Railway Officials.

SAN FRANCISCO, October 14.—The board of directors of the new consolidated street car company met today and elected the following officers: President, C. F. Crocker; first vice-president, H. E. Huntington; second vice-president, M. D. Stein; treasurer, N. T. Smith; secretary, J. L. Willcutt.

The Senate Criticised.

CLEVELAND, October 14.—Ex-Speaker Thomas B. Reed spoke here tonight to a large audience for nearly an hour. He declared the Democratic party had succeeded in bringing about the closing of factories and mills, something they could not do with the senate. The senate, he said, was elected to govern the people yet could only give the people a test of physical endurance, the greatest thing it had yet done being to remain in session thirty-nine hours.

Robbers Foiled.

CHICAGO, October 14.—An afternoon paper says the night operator on the Milwaukee & St. Paul road at Oak Glen, ten miles out, discovered a gang of men acting suspiciously last night. He notified headquarters and a special train was sent out in advance of the fast mail. The robbers, with red lanterns, were prepared to flag the train a short distance above Oak Glen, but discovering the special with armed officers on board, fled in the darkness and escaped. The fast mail would have proved a rich haul for them.

Death of an Editor.

PETALUMA, October 14.—Judge F. W. Shattuck, a pioneer Californian, who was an editorial writer on the Daily Courier of this city and local correspondent of the Associated Press, died suddenly this morning of apoplexy.

Train Robber Sentenced.

BRAZIL, Ind. October 14.—Noah King, leader of the gang of train wreckers [illegible] and drawing with that class have any interest in good order?

I am perfectly aware that we can't resolve the bad elements out of society, and that we must set out with practical means to do it, and I see a way out but to adopt a policy of fostering home getting instead of home absorption. I am also in favor of not only encouraging home getting, but make it a crime to be a tramp. We never can do that, however, while we are so fearful of the individual right, which is used mostly for a license for crime.

L. N. HARRIS.

From The Outlook.

"My daughter now attends the girls' college. It is so difficult to find husbands now that we have concluded to let her study law."

"And your son?"

"Oh! he declares that no girl is proficient in cookery nowadays, and opines that he is he has decided to qualify as a professional cook!"—Deutsche Wespen.

FEARFUL DESTRUCTION

In the Track of the Eastern Storm.

WORST EXPERIENCED IN YEARS

Many Buildings and Wharves Destroyed, but Few Lives Are Lost.

NEW YORK, October 14.—The great storm yesterday and last night subsided in this vicinity this evening, but is raging furiously in the west and north parts of the state. In this vicinity and along the coast south a great deal of minor damage has been done and some small vessels wrecked, but so far as heard from no lives were lost.

Advices from Buffalo tonight state the wind is blowing at the rate of sixty miles an hour. Considerable damage has been done and several yachts went ashore, but so far as learned no lives were lost.

At Long Branch and Asbury Park the wind reached a velocity of seventy miles an hour. No wrecks are reported.

The damage at Jersey City is considerable, chiefly due to flooded cellars.

Belvidere, N. J., reports great damage to property and no fatalities, but many narrow escapes.

WILMINGTON, N. C., October 14.—The terrific outburst of wind and wave that swept through this city surpassed anything ever known here. The tide, which was the highest ever known, covered the lowlands opposite the city and stretched in an unbroken sea across the rice fields as far as the eye could reach. All the wharves are under water, and the flood swept through the lower floors of the warehouses. The city wharves were washed up and landed bodily on Water street.

At Southport the custom-house buildings and nearly all the wharves were washed away. The only loss of life yet known is reported from Sampson, where a tree fell on the house of a farmer named Lane and crushed two of his children to death.

WASHINGTON, October 14.—The hurricane passed over this city last night. Houses were unroofed and some small ones blown down. Justice Brown of the supreme court was struck by a piece of plate glass, which cut a deep gash, severing an artery, and but for prompt medical attendance he would have bled to death.

CHICAGO, October 14.—As a result of the fearful wind and rain storm, telegraphic communication with New York, Washington and Boston and a large part of the south is entirely prostrated. The interference to wire communication is the most complete known since the great New York blizzard. The storm is felt over thousands of miles inland.

BALTIMORE, October 14.—The storm drove the sea and river over the piers here, and the flood did considerable damage.

BOARD OF SUPERVISORS.

Resolution Passed With Regard to the Court House Contract.

October 14, 1893.

The Board of Supervisors met in their office pursuant to adjournment. Present, full board.

W. A. Shepherd, clerk; by J. B. Johnson, deputy.

The board counted and destroyed by fire all coyote scalps deposited with the clerk for the quarter ending September 30st.

Following resolution was passed: In consideration of the present occupation by the county officials of parts of the uncompleted additions to the court house, under consent of the contractors, it is hereby agreed with said contractors that the period of thirty-five days for final payment provided for by the contract of the county with said contractors shall begin with this date, and the chairman is authorized to sign an agreement to that effect with the said contractors, provided that such agreement shall not be deemed an acceptance of the work under said contract.

The board passed ordinance No. 51 establishing and fixing rates of licenses for the county of Fresno for ensuing year.

The board as a committee of the whole inspected the court house and additions thereto, in course of construction, and adjourned until Wednesday, October 18th, at 10 a.m.

THE MADERA MUDDLE

THE RESULT OF RIVALRY OF BUSINESS CONCERNS.

A. F. Johns Says Hargrove Has Annoyed Him by Unprofessional Practice.

A. F. Johns and his son, W. E. Johns, were in this city yesterday on business and were interviewed with regard to their recent trouble with Attorney R. L. Hargrove in Madera.

Mr. Johns seemed to think that he had not been fairly treated in the newspaper reports of the matter, and stated his side of the case freely.

He stated that owing to the financial stress of the times, etc., he had been unable to secure ready money to pay some of his men promptly and that Hargrove had tried to take advantage of the situation to throw him into involuntary insolvency.

He had gone around on the street from man to man and tried to induce them to put their claims into his hands.

On the day of the altercation a number of the men were in town and Mr. Johns was awaiting the arrival of money from Fresno with which to pay them. Hargrove tried to take advantage of the delay and persuade the men to begin action against Johns.

A. F. Johns took him to task for his underhand and unprofessional conduct, and hard words passed, Hargrove used some impudent language, when Johns threatened to slap him and Hargrove threw up his hands either for assault or defense and young Johns interfered and slapped him over.

Hargrove advanced again and was then knocked down, and the usual results of a street brawl followed.

From what can be learned the whole matter grows out of a rivalry and bad blood existing between the people representing the Madera bank on the one side and those of the Fruit and Land Company on the other.

LIVELY TIMES

Had by the Salvation Army in Madera.

From the Madera Mercury.

The Salvation Army, led by a pretty lass, came from Fresno yesterday afternoon and gave sin a good drubbing. An outdoor meeting was held early in the evening on Yosemite avenue. The sweet-voiced captain played a concertina and sang several songs. Several members related "experiences" and then the Army marched to the Breslin hall followed by a large crowd.

The little captain sang a song in which the audience took part. Just as they were in the midst of it a disturbance took place which threatened to end in a row.

James O'Mara caused the disturbance. He came into the hall, and, motioning towards the crowd, he said: "Get out of here, every d—— one of you."

As no one showed a disposition to move he grabbed one or two men by the arms and attempted to push them toward the stairs. Several men jumped upon the seats and shouted "Go on with the meeting!" "Put that man out," etc.

O'Mara jumped on a seat and turned out one of the lamps.

George Smith, the jeweler, walked over the seats, shaking a long bony finger at the disturber of the meeting. "You stop that," he said. "You have no business to disturb this meeting."

Mr. O'Mara was excited, and he yelled: "Yes, I have. I was sent here by Mrs. Breslin, who owns this hall. She did not rent it to these people, and I want you all to get out."

G. S. Brower, the man who ran for the office of treasurer of Fresno county on the Peoples' Party ticket at the last election, and who has joined the Salvation Army, got off the stage and, rushing down the aisle grabbed Mr. O'Mara by the coat lapels and, shaking him, asked by what authority he came there to disturb the meeting.

O'Mara shook his fist under the nose of the Salvation Army warrior and said something which was lost in the uproar made by the spectators, who were standing on the benches yelling "pitch him out."

During the uproar the three Salvation Army women kept on with the singing as if nothing had happened. The little captain wore a pleasant smile on her pretty face. Several big men looked anxiously at the lassie hoping she would say the word to have the disturbing element thrown out as they were eager for the job. Order was restored finally and the meeting progressed.

VINCENT'S EXECUTION.

THE SHERIFF IS PREPARING FOR IT.

Work Begun on the Inclosure Where the Gallows Will Stand.

Work was begun yesterday by Sheriff Scott in preparation for the execution of Dr. F. O. Vincent, which will take place at the jail on October 27.

Carpenters began the construction of the fence that is to inclose the space where the gallows will be erected, and half finished it before the time to lay off came. The fence will be sixteen feet high.

The dimensions of the inclosure are about 35x20 feet, and it is believed about 250 people can be comfortably accommodated therein, making allowance for the gallows, stairs, etc.

The erection of the gallows may be begun on Tuesday. It was borrowed from Los Angeles county, and all that is necessary is to put together the parts. It doesn't look new, but will no doubt prove serviceable.

It will be situated right in front of the rear entrance to the jail, which is unused and opens into a sort of closet. It is the most convenient spot for the gallows, as the condemned man may be conducted to it without being subjected to the gaze of curious outsiders. Applications for tickets of admission are still received by the sheriff, but there are none left.

Vincent does not appear to be very much worried. He looks pale and wasted, of course, but that may be attributed to his long confinement. He shows wonderful nerve and still expresses the opinion that he will escape the death penalty.

Nothing has been heard of his attorneys and it cannot be learned whether they are doing anything further for Vincent or not. Judging from a remark of the condemned man, however, he expects nothing from that direction.

A business man of Canada of an enterprising nature has established a "floating bank" on Kootenai lake, Canada. It is in a steamer which journeys from place to place along the lake, thus enabling its owner to supply the inhabitants of the lake villages with banking facilities.

A frog cannot breathe with its mouth open. Its breathing apparatus is so arranged that when its mouth is open its nostrils are closed. To suffocate a frog, it is necessary only to prop its jaws so that they cannot shut.

The Romley officer of health protests against the destruction of the crocodiles. He says they are the best and only scavengers possible of the water reservoirs in which they dwell.

The greatest courage is to bear persecution, not to answer when you are reviled, and when a wrong has been done to forgive.—"The Newcomes."

AN EASTERN paper complains that Californians are always blowing about their glorious climate. That is not so bad, though, as the eastern habit of being always blown about by the climate.

AN OPINION is current in eastern cities that wearing glasses will cure headache. Therein lies an opportunity for the enterprising saloon keeper to float with the current of popular favor by giving a pair of glasses with every first-class jag.

THE party who introduced a resolution in the national irrigation convention favoring state division mistook the character of the gathering. He evidently, and somewhat naturally mistook it for a mass meeting to boom immigration to Southern California.

THE South Methodist conference yesterday unanimously read Mr. Reams, late of Merced, out of the church. The state and the church are now well rid of one of the blackest rascals that has disgraced them for some time. It is to be hoped that Reams will continue to be a foreigner during the rest of his natural life.

NOW HERE is rebellion right in Texas. The San Antonio Express says: "If wool is placed on the free list by a Democratic congress West Texas will elect at least two Republican congressmen next year. Paste that prediction where you can study it occasionally." Just wait until that ways and means committee comes up out of the cellar with the tariff smasher and see the fun. Possibly Louisiana will have some remarks to make about sugar, and Alabama about iron. We shall see.

THE REPUBLICAN is now printing some very interesting articles on the subject of poultry raising, with a view to increasing public interest in this neglected industry. One of the principal difficulties which California has to contend with at present may be described in the statement that "she has too many eggs in one basket." People have rushed into two or three branches of horticulture to the exclusion of other industries, and as a consequence while our markets are glutted with some products they are nearly bare of others. There is no question that our prosperity can be greatly and permanently enhanced by diversifying our industries, and poultry raising conducted according to approved methods promises excellent results to those who put practical experience and a modest amount of capital into the business. We hope to hear from other contributors who are possessed of useful knowledge on the subject.

SAN FRANCISCO is duly shocked over the marriage of the reprobate son of ex-Senator Fair to a woman of the town. The prevailing opinion in society circles evidently is that it is a terrible thing for a millionaire in his own right and the prospective heir to many millions to marry a woman whose mode of life is more or less of a bar to entrance into the charmed circle. The social record on this subject justifies the opinion that had young Fair pursued the usual course of his kind and laid his black heart and glittering millions at the feet of some pure young girl, that the murmur of dissent would have been very subdued indeed—not nearly so pronounced as that which is heard when some young woman of the "upper crust" commits the folly of marrying a poor but honest man. The plain, uncontrovertable fact is, however, that Fair's marriage is as appropriate as it possibly could be. The only doubt of its fitness lies in the probability that the woman is too good for him.

THE New York Press takes the position that the popular literature of the day contains too many love stories of a certain sort. It is undoubtedly true that the mutual attraction of the sexes is the sole theme of a large majority of the books that come from our printing presses. The books referred to are not those which are distinctly immoral in tone and impure in suggestion. They are novels in which the love of men for women and women for men is treated as though it constituted the only element of interest in human life. Eliza Orchard Connor called attention to a grave evil when in her recent address before Sorosis she said:

The girl of today soaks her brain in mawkish sentimentality as a drunkard soaks his in alcohol until there isn't a grain of sense left, and her emotions are ready to gush out and slop over to the first man that smiles on her. The working girl dreams of the hero that will come along and lift her out of her misery. But he doesn't come because there isn't any such man.

This is a strong statement, but it is based on the truth. The average love story, although it may not contain an immoral line in the ordinary sense of the term, is a pernicious distortion of the life it professes to portray. The men of this country are not divided into two grand classes of heroes and villains. Masculine Americans are not perpetually on the lookout for opportunities to rescue beauteous damsels from dire peril, because they are hard at work earning an honorable livelihood for themselves and their families. They make the best husbands in the world, and they reverence womanhood as it deserves to be reverenced, but they are brought into too close contact with prosaic realities to take many excursions into the rose-tinted domain of romance.

There can be no objection to the portrayal of love between the sexes when it is done with reasonable fidelity to the facts. But the novels that disregard the wide diversity of elements which go to make up human life, and dwell on love and marriage alone, fill the minds of young girls with a set of false [...] frequently do infinite harm [...] supplied with wholesome novels are not likely to cultivate an appetite for trash.

Novels of action or of character, filled with the breeze of healthful human nature, are plentiful, if one will but choose them. The master storytellers, whose eminence the present generation of novelists, fertile though it be, cannot hope to equal, wrote such tales in abundance. There are many writers of today who, though they cannot approach the skill of Dickens, Scott, Thackeray, Balzac, Hugo, Hawthorne and George Eliot, are yet producing books of absorbing interest; books in which love plays its rightful part and does not usurp sole dominance; books which picture life in its varied phases with a hundred times greater truth and charm than the silly and sentimental love story. These are the novels that are worth reading. There is no good reason why American young women should read rubbish.

MUSINGS OF A WATERMAN.

Reminiscences of the Days When He Was in the Swim.

A. J. W. in Stockton Mail.

Oh, swimming isn't what it was. The times have changed since when I used to swim six times a day, and then—go in again. I didn't need a bathing suit in those old days of glee; the bathing suit that nature gave was good enough for me; and if one didn't like the buff, why, this thing can be said: The sun was always good enough to partly paint it red. The boys don't "duck" me as they did when I was two feet high, nor dive beneath and pinch my legs—will some one tell me why? No more when I a swim have had my mother says to me, "You've been in swimming, you bad boy; your hair is wet, I see," and I don't tell her as I did, with heart inclined to thump, "No, ma'am, I haven't swimmed at all; I wet it at the pump." Ah, times have changed; the stingful switch no more is on my hide, as when my mother ascertained her youthful son had lied. She used to say: "You've been exposed to sickness all untold, and this, I think, my little boy, will drive away a cold." And then she warmed me! I recall that scene through vistas dim. She made it lively for a time; but, then —I had my swim. Oh, golden days of long ago, come back, come back again, for swimming isn't what it was; the times have changed since then.

SICK Head-Aches.

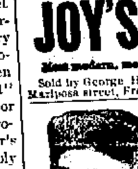

Sick-headaches are the outward indications of derangements of the stomach and bowels. As Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla, is the only bowel regulating preparation of Sarsaparilla, it is seen why it is the only appropriate Sarsaparilla in sick-headaches. It is not only appropriate; it is an absolute cure. After a course of it an occasional dose at intervals will forever after prevent return.

Jno. M. Cox, of 735 Turk Street, San Francisco, writes: "I have been troubled with attacks of sick-headache for the last three years from one to three times a week. Some time ago I bought two bottles of Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla and have only had one attack since and that was on the second day after I began using it."

ORDINANCE ... 59.

Ordinance fixing retail liquor license and regulating places where liquors are sold.

The Board of Supervisors of the County of Fresno do ordain as follows:

Section 1. It shall be lawful for any person or association of persons to keep, maintain, conduct, or carry on or to assist in keeping, conducting or carrying on, any maintaining, conducting or carrying on any place of business where spirituous, vinous, malt or other intoxicating liquors are sold, given or disposed of in any way in away, disposed or disposed of in any way in less quantities than one quart, within the limits of the County of Fresno, except as hereinafter provided, without first procuring a license therefor, as hereinafter provided.

Section 2. Every person or association of persons desiring such license shall file a petition therefor, in writing, with the Board of Supervisors, of said county, at any regular meeting of said Board, which said petition shall state the intended place and character of business, the previous occupation and residence of the petitioner and whether a license has ever been granted to petitioner and if so, whether the same was revoked, and shall have attached thereto a certificate signed by ten electors and free holders residing or having their free holds nearest to such intended place of business to the effect that they are and each of them is personally acquainted with the applicant and that he is a person of good moral character and a suitable person to engage in the business therein mentioned, and containing their assent to the issuing of a license to him for the purpose therein mentioned, Provided, that none of the persons so signing such certificates shall be engaged in the business for which the license is desired, or shall be the owners of any property used or occupied in the conducting or carrying on of such business by the petitioner; and it is further provided, that where the intended place of business is in any town or incorporated city, the petition shall be signed by a majority of the proprietors of stores and shops and of the free holders and lease holders in the block where said intended place of business is located, whose property faces the same street with such intended place of business.

Section 3. No petition for the issuance of any license hereunder shall be heard until the next regular meeting of said Board, after the same shall have been filed, and after notice of the time of such hearing shall be given, by such petitioner by publication at least once a week for three successive weeks in a newspaper of general circulation, printed and published in said Fresno county, and the proof of such publication shall have been filed with the Clerk of said Board.

Section 4. Any person or persons desiring to contest said application, shall file with said Board at least two days before the time for hearing the same, a written and verified opposition thereto setting forth the grounds upon which the same is based.

Section 5. If upon the hearing of such application and of the contestants thereof, if any, it shall appear that all the allegations of such petition and certificate are true, and the Board is satisfied that the person is a proper person to conduct said business, and that the place mentioned in said petition, is a proper place for carrying on said business, the Board may make an order, granting a license to such petitioner to carry on the business in said petition mentioned, and at the place therein named. Provided, that no license shall be issued until such applicant shall have filed with said Board, a good and sufficient bond as hereinafter provided.

Section 6. Every person or association of persons to whom such license should be granted shall keep a respectable, quiet, and orderly place of business and for a failure so to do shall pay to the County of Fresno a penalty of $100 and upon proof to the satisfaction of the Board after a hearing upon reasonable notice if such petitioner shall be found not to have kept at any particular time such orderly place as aforesaid, he shall in addition to the aforesaid sum of $100 be deprived of his license without any rebate or allowance to him for the unexpired time of such license.

Section 7. Before any license shall be issued the applicant therefor must have filed with said Board a good and sufficient bond in the sum of one thousand dollars with at least two sureties to be approved by said Board which said bond shall be conditioned that said petitioner will keep and maintain said place orderly and quiet at all times and will pay to the County of Fresno any and all penalties provided for by this ordinance, and will conform to the laws of the State of California; and such license, when issued, shall be permission to such applicant and no other person or persons to open, keep, maintain, conduct, or carry on said business at the place therein mentioned and no other place, and no license granted or issued hereunder shall be transferable.

Section 8. Every person or association of persons to whom license is granted hereunder shall pay to the Tax Collector of Fresno county a license tax of seventy-five dollars quarterly, payable each quarter of the year in advance, provided that no license shall be issued for a longer period than three months, and provided that said Board may renew any license in its discretion without requiring the filing of a new petition therefor, and provided further, that the bond originally filed shall remain in full force and effect so long as the same person shall remain in business at the same place under and pursuant to the original permit; and provided, that if at the date of the passage of this ordinance, there shall be places of business already opened whose license shall expire at such a period that any time must elapse between the expiration of the old license granted under the former ordinance, and the hearing and determination of a petition under this ordinance by said Board, then the License Collector is hereby authorized to issue to such person or persons, without the formality of filing a petition, a license for a period of one month, and to receive therefor the pro rata sum required by this ordinance for such license for such period.

Section 9. The quarters shall begin on the first Monday of November, February May and August of each and every year, provided, however, that when a license is desired for any time less than a quarter of a year, the license tax shall be the same amount as for the whole quarter.

Section 10. The Board of Supervisors hereby expressly reserves the right to revoke any license granted hereunder, upon the hearing of a verified complaint, filed with said Board, upon reasonable notice given to respondent therein named of the time and place fixed for such hearing and upon such hearing, if it appears that the respondent has violated any of the provisions of this ordinance, or has violated any of the laws of the State of California, his license shall be revoked and his bond declared forfeited, and steps shall be taken to collect the penalty thereof in the manner prescribed by law, and such persons shall be barred from obtaining any other license under this ordinance.

Section 11. The names of L. D. Hargis, B. H. Russell and E. A. Garrison were referred to the committee on conference relations.

Colonel Austin, president of Pacific Methodist college, was introduced to the conference and made a speech regarding the institution.

With a discouraging and almost hopeless outlook when he took charge, in a short while he had the sympathy of the students of the institution and citizens of Santa Rosa, so that within two months from the opening of the term the number of pupils had doubled.

But for the great financial depression resting upon the country, in his opinion, the college during the year would have enjoyed a high degree of prosperity. He called attention to the fact that it was still a denominational institution, although under his control, and to attain the best results, the co-operation of the church was indispensable.

Said he, "I feel I do not call upon you in vain to help me place our institution where it once was—to make it such as to indicate to the world the fact of your Christian culture." He continued, "If you have sons and daughters to be educated, send them to us. It will be my pleasure, and of those that co-operate, to teach them. Send them along to us and help us. Look after those who want to go to school, and turn them to us."

In way of endorsement of what President Austin had said the bishop added: "The church that doesn't educate its children ought to get out of the way—that turns them over to the different churches and don't educate their own children, ought to get out of the way."

Rev. Dr. Ellsworth of the M. E. church was introduced to the conference and made a short address. He very kindly tendered the use of the Benlah camp ground, located in Benlah park, East Oakland, and very cordially invited the Pacific conference to hold its next session there.

The camp ground has recently been purchased for church purposes, and he would be glad to see the Pacific conference avail itself of the tender made.

Announcements were made by the committees, after which appointments for preaching in the different churches of the city today were made.

Conference adjourned by singing "Praise God from Whom all Blessings Flow," and the benediction, to convene again on Monday at 9 a. m.

Was it Bats or the Results of Bats.

A well known lawyer whose capacity is not altogether confined to head, while standing in front of the White Fawn saloon yesterday morning, happened to cast his eye to the roof of the buildings across the street, whereupon his face wore a startled expression.

He beheld, or thought he did, five or six bats circling around in the air in broad daylight and increasing in numbers every minute.

When the number got up to about fifty a brother attorney of similar tastes approached and casually his attention was called to the slow motion of the government wind guage on top of the savings bank.

He glanced his eye up carelessly, then yelled excitedly, "Gee whizz! Look at the bats!"

A minute later, while a crowd of a hundred or more were gazing up at the gyrating cheiroptera, the state official and ex-district attorney edged into the saloon and as they took a long, gurgling potation one of them remarked: "Say, I'm mighty glad that those were really bats." There was no dissenting opinion filed.

FRESNO REPUBLICANS.

MEETING OF THE COUNTY CENTRAL COMMITTEE.

A Number of Vacancies Filled and Other Business Transacted.

A meeting of the Republican county central committee was held in the committee rooms at 1020 Mariposa street yesterday afternoon. Dr. A. G. Deardorff presided.

The matter of filling vacancies was first taken up and disposed of. Madera county having been cut off made it necessary to elect three committeemen for the first supervisor district and one at large.

Major Chisholm presented his resignation and J. M. Ryan and R. L. Barr were declared suspended because of removal from the county.

In the first district J. J. Luce and C. E. Davis were chosen to act with H. Madsen as committeemen and R. N. Barstow was selected from the same district at large.

In the Third district T. W. Pickford and F. P. Wickersham were selected to fill vacancies, and Al Woodard of Sanger was selected for the Fifth district.

Dr. Deardorff tendered his resignation as vice chairman and a member at large of the committee. Dr. T. M. Hayden was chosen to succeed him as member of the committee.

F. P. Wickersham was elected chairman and J. J. Luce vice chairman. J. W. Shanklin presented his resignation as secretary of the committee, but the committee voted not to accept it.

The executive committee consists of F. P. Wickersham, T. M. Hayden, Al Woodard, T. W. Pickford and W. W. Machon.

Ex-Chairman J. Myer, now mayor of Madera, made a neat little speech upon the political situation and wished the new committee even greater success than its predecessor.

An adjournment was then taken subject to the call of the chairman.

REV. ANDERSON HONORED.

Elected a Clerical Delegate to the General Conference.

At the session of the Pacific Conference of the M. E. Church South, held here yesterday, Rev. Thomas Hart Benton Anderson, D. D., of this city, was elected a delegate to the general conference on the first ballot.

Dr. Anderson has presided over the destinies of the M. E. Church South in Fresno for two years with success, and is known as a divine of much force, eloquence and good judgment.

His election is a compliment deserved, and in the coming general conference to be held at Nashville, Tennessee, he will be able to accomplish much for the church on this coast, and it may be that that august body will advance him in the clerical honors and duties for which he is eminently fitted.

THE MILLENIUM COMING.

If It Doesn't Bog Down in the Rice Swamps.

Press of the Hillsboro Times, St. Petersburg, Florida.

We have been maintaining for some time that South Carolina under the rule of Tillman and the farmers has come to be the most progressive state in the south.

Not long since he chained locomotives to the railroad track because the company didn't pay their taxes. There is not another governor in the south that would stop a hand-car if the section master was in sight.

The latest from the palmetto state seems incredible. On the 1st of September George S. Turner, proprietor of the Valley Falls Cotton Mills and a man of wealth, was hanged for murder. In what other state would it be possible to hang a rich man? Surely when a chartered corporation can be made to submit to law and a rich man to pay its penalty the millenium must have its baggage checked this way.

OPENING IN MILLINERY.

The White Front Stores Will Show the Latest Styles.

The millinery department of the White Front Stores, 1027, 1029, and 1031 I street, under the management of Miss K. Noland, Fresno's popular milliner, has received a most magnificent stock of imported millinery in the latest Parisian styles, which will be open to the public on Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week.

The ladies of Fresno and vicinity are invited to call at the White Front Stores on the opening days and inspect the beautiful new goods in the millinery department.

A Living Picture Gallery.

A novel entertainment will be given by the City Union of C.E. Societies Friday evening, October 20th.

Several of Fresno's popular young people will represent such famous pictures as, "Thurman's Springtime of Love," "Tojetti's Tired Little Mother," "Gabriel Max's Joan of Arc," "Priscilla," "Nydia," "Little Lord Fauntleroy," and others.

A prominent physician and his wife will appear as Josiah and Samantha Allen.

Among those who will pose, are Misses Jeanne M. Long, Lula Anderson, DeWitt, Bunnell, Hall, Morrison, Mrs. Bishop, Dr. Cory, W. A. Bean, Clyde Olney, E. G. White.

A good program of music and recitations will be interspersed.

This exhibition will be given in the parlors of the Congregational church. Admission 25c.

POLLEY DISCHARGED

Judge Webb Dismisses the Indictment.

IMPORTANT WITNESS MISSING

Eight Months in Jail on the Allegations of a Negro Jailbird.

Judge Webb yesterday dismissed all the indictments against Fred W. Polley, who stood charged with being accessory to the murder of Louis B. McWhirter.

Polley has been in jail for eight months without a trial and is now discharged for lack of evidence.

It seem from Mr. Walser's statements that the prosecution depended largely upon the evidence of a negro named Jim Givens, who made a statement while in jail on a charge of grand larceny throwing suspicion on Polley.

Givens was afterwards let plead guilty to petty larceny, served a couple of days in jail and was discharged, and no precaution taken to keep him here as a witness, and he soon after disappeared.

The prosecution not being able to find Jim Givens held Polley in jail until yesterday because a conviction could not be had without Givens' evidence, and judging from his character and record it would have been hard to find a jury who could believe him had he been here and testified, as it would have been shown that he was a hard case and guilty of other offences.

Mr. Moultrie, Polley's attorney, says that he believes that Givens invented the story to get out of jail on easy terms. He had an alias of Cummings and was in trouble in Los Angeles.

Polley takes the matter good naturedly and says he is glad to be out again, as it was pretty tough to be shut up so long in jail. He will remain in Fresno for the present. He has had numerous offers of employment.

FARMERS' ALLIANCE.

PREPARATIONS FOR THE STATE CONVENTION

To Be Held in Fresno This Week—A Large Attendance Is Expected.

The regular annual state convention of the Farmers' Alliance will be held in Fresno this week, beginning next Tuesday morning and will last four days.

The convention is expected to be well attended and it is likely that between 400 and 500 delegates will be present. At the state convention in Los Angeles last year there were present nearly a thousand delegates.

The Alliance of this county has made elaborate preparations for the entertainment of the visitors, who will be given a reception commensurate with Fresno's reputation for hospitality. It if expected most of the delegates will have arrived by Monday evening.

The business sessions of the Alliance will be held during the day, in the morning and afternoon. At night there will be meetings open to the public which will be more of a social character. An excellent program of music and literature has been made up for those general meetings.

On Monday night there will be a welcome meeting, at which the delegates will have an opportunity to become acquainted with one another or to renew old acquaintanceship.

There will be much important business transacted at this convention and officers elected for the ensuing term.

The convention will close with a mass meeting Friday evening, at which the most prominent speakers of the Alliance and the People's party will address the people.

Some of the delegates to the convention have already arrived, prominent among them being Burdette Cornell, state lecturer of the Alliance.

INTEREST INCREASING

In Fresno County Midwinter Fair Exhibit.

The following contributions for Fresno county's exhibit for the Midwinter Fair was received yesterday:

W. A. Washer, a box of Beurre Clairgeau pears, eighteen of which weigh twenty-three pounds.

S. H. Packard, a box of peaches and a quantity of string beans.

W. J. Colwell, a box of Duchess pears.

Jens Hansen, some Egyptian corn and sorghum cane.

W. C. Ketchum, a pumpkin four feet and two inches long.

F. M. Lane, a sack of Sonora wheat and another of bearded barley, both of best quality and very clean.

Mrs. S. Littlefield of Temperance colony, a box of quinces.

Mrs. A. A. Davis of Fig avenue, a jar of syrup made in 1881.

No raisins besides those whose receipt was mentioned a few days ago have yet been received. The commission is anxious to have all contributions of raisins come in early, so that some idea can be gained as to the room necessary for this county exhibit.

It should be a matter of pride with the packers to make fine raisin exhibits, entering into friendly competition with each other.

A. J. McMurtry, an agent of the directorate of the Midwinter Fair, is traveling all over the state giving lectures on the fair and presenting views comparing the east and west. The entertainment is a very interesting one, and the local commission wish it to be presented in Fresno. The expense will be small, and what is taken in in excess will belong to the commission, to be used for their county exhibits. The project deserves encouragement.

C. E. COUNTY CONVENTION.

Third Semi-Annual Meeting at Sanger.

The third semi-annual convention of the County Union of Christian Endeavor that meets in Sanger next Saturday, October 21st, promises to be the most important yet held by the union.

Those desiring to go can either drive over or take the train that leaves here at 7 o'clock a.m. A train returning leaves Sanger about 5 o'clock p.m.

DILWOOD ACQUITTED.

MISFIT EVIDENCE OF CRIMINALITY LETS HIM OFF.

Tried for Receiving Stolen Goods and Acquitted Because He Stole Them Himself.

The trial of the case of the People vs. A. M. Dilwood charged with receiving stolen goods, the goods being Mr. Johnson's cow was continued before Judge Harris yesterday morning.

Elmo Hadley, his 17-year-old copartner in crime, was still on the stand and testified that Dilwood planned the theft and aided in the perpetration of it to some extent.

When the People rested their case Mr. Terry moved that the prisoner be discharged on the ground that the People had failed to establish their case in that the evidence went to prove that Dilwood stole the cow and therefore could not be guilty as charged.

Judge Harris took the matter under consideration for the remainder of the morning and at the afternoon session granted the motion and directed the jury to acquit.

Dilwood had been previously tried for the theft of the cow and the jury found him not guilty, it appearing then that he was guilty of receiving stolen property, if anything, and therefore by this bit of legal juggling he goes scot free.

Dilwood is still held on a charge of burglary committed in robbing Mrs. Musick's house in Temperance colony which was tried earlier in the week and the jury failed to agree. That case has been continued for the term and Dilwood remanded to jail.

THE POPULISTS

FORM A COUNTY INDUSTRIAL LEGION.

Organization of a State Legion in Fresno This Week.

The first county delegation of the California Industrial Legion convened in the First Baptist church yesterday afternoon.

State Organizer M. W. Wilkins called the meeting to order and Milton McWhorter, O. L. Abbott and Mrs. L. E. Mead were appointed a committee on credentials and reported as follows: Selma 5 delegates, Fresno 5, Wahtoka 5, West Park 5.

The following officers were elected and installed:

Colonel, Milton McWhorter; quartermaster, A. A. Whitten; adjutant, Mrs. L. E. Mead; recruiting officer, G. S. Brower; chaplain, Mrs. J. S. Dore; sentinel, C. B. Sargent.

The following representatives were then elected to the state convention, which convenes in Fresno October 18th: Mrs. L. E. Mead, G. S. Brower, Milton McWhorter, M. W. Wilkins, J. S. Dore, Mrs. J. B. Hill and O. L. Abbott.

The meeting was then addressed by J. H. Mace of Kansas, who made a very interesting and instructive speech, after which the convention adjourned to meet again some time in January.

The Industrial Legion is a comparatively new organization and is an adjunct of the People's Party, being composed of members of that body. It is entirely a political organization and is expected to accomplish much good for the Populist cause.

It is organized on a plan similar to that of other political bodies, there being a National Industrial Legion, state, county and district legions. The organization of a state legion for California will be formed at the convention in this city next week.

SPIRITED REMARKS.

Sparks Knocked Out of the Flint of Experience.

Mr. Lauer, the landscape gardner, met A. P. Adams of the Linl vineyard yesterday, and, alluding to a recent mishap to the latter, the former remarked:

"Say, Adams, I thought you was a Republican and believed in protection for home industries?"

"So I am; why?"

"Then why don't you put a ladder in that blending tank of yours, so you can get out when you fall in? I don't see why you fell into that wine, anyway."

"To give body to it—" and then they mused a moment and each went his way.

DELIGHTS OF DINING.

HOW EASILY THE SPELL OF SOLEMN ENJOYMENT MAY BE BROKEN.

Dishes That From Their Peculiarly Subtle and Lonely Character Demand Attention, Reverence and Silence—An Epicure's Serious Affliction.

For my thorough appreciation of a large and good dinner I am, I believe, indebted to my father. He was a great diner, and it is well known that the finest qualities of the English race are hereditary. My father suffered from gout, and the doctors, who are a mass of prejudices, tell me that I also have got it. However, I am thankful to say that I know my own constitution. What is really the matter with me is a sort of cold accompanied by inflammation in one toe. It arises, I should say, from overwork. Old port is good for it.

A fine appreciation of dinner should be accompanied by a large income. When my father died of apoplexy (brought on by a quarrel with his cook, who was a fair instance of talent as distinct from genius), I succeeded to his position in the firm, and to an income which even in the city is considered to be fairly large. I love largeness. I love large incomes, large houses, large appetites, large waistcoats, large dinners. I can never be too thankful that I can well afford large dinners. It was always my ambition to be, like my father, a great diner, and it would be but false humility to say that I shall die without having earned the reputation.

I distinguish between the diner and the diner out. I do not want to be uncharitable, but I have no high opinion of the diner out. He does not, as a rule, take the dinner itself quite seriously. He is liable to show an interest in the women whom he takes in or in the conversation. Now, life is too short for that division of interests; we only have time to do one thing well. Let dinner be that one thing. I say, dine—merely dine. That is enough. Do that well, and you have the best delight that this world can give you. As for conversation, I despise it.

Now, there was the case of Charles Nutcomb. He was with us at one time and might for family reasons have come into a small partnership. It would not have been much—some £3,000 a year—but ample for a young and unmarried man who is willing to exercise ordinary care. Charles was a diner out, and for family reasons I once asked him to dine with me, although in a general way I will not have young men at my table. At the very moment when we were eating a vol-au-vent that from its peculiarly subtle and lonely character demanded the eater's attention, reverence and silence—at that very moment, Charles Nutcomb was heedless enough to tell a story. It caused noisy laughter. It, if I may use the phrase, completely broke the spell. It was like whistling in church. However, it was not in consequence of this indiscretion alone that I finally decided to get rid of Nutcomb. He refused port. A man who refuses port—my port—is a fool and consequently unfit to be a partner in Gorgbury & Pigge. A fortnight afterward I managed to make some excuse for getting him out of office. I feel positively certain that he would have embezzled money if he had remained. His after career only confirmed my low opinion of him. He went completely to the dogs—became an author, in fact.

But I am not unduly devoted to wine. Indeed I sometimes wonder whether I am more fond of that or of the solid part of the dinner. Both are good. Both bring out all that is best in a man. The feeling of gratitude, for instance, is commendable. It is impossible to think much about the commonest viands—asparagus, the simple oyster, or even a cut from a perfect saddle of mutton—without feeling grateful. Then, too, dinner promotes the kindly spirit. When I lie back in my chair after dinner, breathing sterntorously, my temper becomes kindly to the verge of fatuousness.

When in the morning a clerk arrives an hour late and makes some paltry excuse—that his wife is dead, or some nonsense of that sort—I of course dismiss him at once. But if I were to defer my decision until the evening I should very likely confine myself to fining him a week's salary. If it were his first offense, and my dinner had been particularly good, I might even let him off with a reprimand. That is the reason why I do no business under any pretext after dinner. It is all very well to feel kindliness, but one has to be careful that the feeling shall not influence one's actions.

How inseparable from our dearest delights are our deepest sorrows! I have but one serious affliction, the great soup—the soup of the city—has not a real attraction for me. It is richly expensive; it is hallowed by a thousand historical associations; it has brought ecstasy to the hearts of men with larger incomes than I shall ever possess, but to me it is almost a closed book. Sometimes when I am eating it at a city banquet I feel as if I could see afar off its perfect meaning and catch dim glimpses of its superb generosity. But that is all. I cannot love it as I know that it ought to be loved.

Heretofore I have kept my affliction a secret, but last night, when Thomas Pigge and I were dining with the Fendermakers (one of the 12 principal companies), I noticed that he was watching me. He saw that I did not really understand that soup. However, I am not afraid that Thomas Pigge will ever dare to reproach me for this. He also has his weak point, and, as he is aware, I know it. He is quite unorthodox on the subject of sauce hollandaise. He has a theory as to the correct preparation of it which can only be characterized as dangerous and revolutionary.

But I must pause. I hear the gong, wahing gently and sleeping as gently again. Blessed sound! Blessed, blessed dinner! I write no more! I got—Henry Pain in London Illustrated News.

SEARCHING AFTER TRUTH.

The Realization Was In Weird Discord to the Anticipation.

"Truth lies at the bottom of a well," so the people of the world told her.

She was young and fair, and she searched for Truth, but her frequent visits to the well brought no discovery: only the reflection of her beautiful face in the water.

One night a knock came at her door, and she sprang up and opened it.

There on the threshold stood a bundle of rags, which moved as if breathing. She shuddered as she asked, "Who are you?" Then came the answer:

"I am Truth."

"I would see your face," she cried.

"Nay, innocent one, my face is not fair to look upon, but I am Truth."

The cold wind was blowing and crying, and she closed the door. The Truth she sought was pure and beautiful, not loathsome, and with the conviction of youth she was satisfied with herself for having refused this gruesome thing admittance. From that day, however, strange visitors knocked at her door, and each called himself Truth.

First came a gay party of dancers, whose graceful figures, swaying to and fro capitvated her fancy; their musical voices held her as in their thrall. Their visit was like a delightful dream, and she asked, "Pray tell me who you are?" And they answered, "We are Truth." So she believed for days; then she realized her mistake, and that they were not Truth, but pleasure. Again she went to the well, but there found nothing.

A day dawned brightly, and there came another knock.

On her threshold stood a lovely child. Its hair was garlanded with flowers, and its garb was spotless white.

When it entered, it was as if a portion of the pure light of the sun had stolen into the room.

The child's arms were soon intwined about the neck of the seeker after Truth.

The odor of the blossoms intoxicated her; her heart beat with wild delight; a tender kiss was stamped on her brow, and with a gentle whisper, "I am Truth," the child was gone, and at her feet buds blossomed—the room was lighter than it had been for years.

The memory of that vision remained with her a long time, but at last it fled, and then she knew it was Love, not Truth.

Again she went to the well, yet found nothing.

Years after another knock came. Her heart beat fast as the figure of a man entered. His manner was flattering and full of grace—his face seemed honest.

She had never felt the influence of other visitors exerted over her with the power of this one.

She dared not ask his name, but as he left he said, pressing her hand, "I am Truth."

For years she believed it; then came doubt, and she saw what had been her ideal of Truth was only Policy.

The next visitor was a long bearded, bent old man, whose face was furrowed and whose hands were palsied.

From his feeble lips came the words, "I am Truth." His stay was short, but she remembered that visitor, and oft when the days were drear she saw before her the trembling hands, the thin, snow white locks, the bent form and the quivering lips, and she believed she had found Truth.

But she was growing older now, and something told her that Sorrow was not Truth. Then she went to the well, and it was dry. But there, far down in its depths, she saw a teal. "Who are you?" she cried, and a hollow voice replied, "I am Tradition." So she turned her face toward home and knew that the whole world lied and was deceived.

That same night came a knock at her door. She rose slowly and opened it. There stood the strange creature covered with rags—her first visitor.

"What would you? Who are you?"

Then came the answer, "I am Truth."

"I would see your face," she murmured.

"Nay, experienced one, my face is not fair to see, but I am Truth."

"Yet would I see it," she made answer, "for well know I now that Truth is not what we would have it, nor is it fair."

Then the figure threw off its rag covering, and before her stood a skeleton.

Now she knew her life search was ended and that she had at last found Truth.—Henry Russell Wray in Philadelphia Ledger.

Peacocks' Feathers.

Peacocks' feathers have been handed down to us from the ancient days of mythology as emblematical of treachery, evil and misfortune. The origin of this strange superstition is founded upon the following classical story: Osiris, king of Egypt, upon starting on his Indian expedition, left his queen, Isis, regent, with Argus, his minister, as her chief adviser. Argus, with his hundred eyes, or rather his spies, soon made himself so formidable and powerful that he seized the queen regent, shut her up in a strong castle and proclaimed himself king of Egypt. Mercury was sent against him with a strong army, took him captive and cut off his head, whereupon Juno metamorphosed him into a peacock and set his spies in his tail. From this legend and the various additions made to it from time to time the belief has arisen that it is unlucky to have peacocks' feathers inside a house.—Brooklyn Eagle.

A Substitute Watch Crystal.

Did you ever smash your watch crystal just when you could not possibly replace it? When it happens again, shake out the broken glass, open the little rim that holds it—the bezel—lay over the face a piece of tissue paper and shut the bezel. This will save the hands from catching in things and not interfere with the going.—Northwest Magazine.

A Fastidious Dog.

Gentleman (after throwing a piece of cutlet to his dog)—Hullo! Cæsar won't eat that meat. Is it possible that the sagacious animal knows that his mistress cooked it herself?—Schalk.

The Turkish Harem.

In a recent lecture on "Turkey," Mr. Oscar F. Strans, ex-minister of the United States to that country, threw some interesting light upon a most interesting phase of Turkish life—the harem. The lecturer admitted that his knowledge came entirely from hearsay. He had never been in one and had never known a diplomat who had. He pronounced the institution not altogether unattractive. Turkish women are not secluded in the harem as in a prison. They are absolute mistresses of that side of the house and free to exercise their rights indisputably. A Turkish husband would not dare to enter his wife's apartments when it is not her pleasure that he should, and also has only to place her slippers outside the door to indicate such desire for seclusion. In many ways the oriental wife makes her caprices felt, and her spouse can only submit with what grace he may, like his occidental brother.

The right to divorce is vested with the husband, but the divorcee retires with all her property to her family and may marry again at once. And this right to hold property separately from their husbands which English and American women have only lately acquired has been the privilege of the Turkish wife for a thousand years.

A One Volume Man.

A curious example of generous obstinacy was a stout countryman who inquired for a nice book to read—"one with a story in." On several being placed before him, he examined them attentively and picked out the middle volume of a "three decker" with the remark, "This 'ere's my sort. What's the price?"

"Oh," was the reply, "this is only the second volume. The story goes through three. The set is half a crown."

"Heave a crown! Well, I'll give that for that one book. It's a pretty un enough."

"But won't you have the other two as well? You'd better!"

"Naw! I don't like th' beginnin of a story; I can't get forrud wi' it. An I don't like th' endin; I don't know as 'ow it's comed about. But in th' middle un I'm into t' thick of it right off. No, I'll only tak' th' middle un; it'll set me up for a month." And, cramming the book into his pocket he put down his half crown and disappeared with a "good mahn" before the other volumes could be given to him.—Chambers' Journal.

CHRIST AND THE SOUL.

When thou turn'st away from ill,
Christ is this side of thy hill.

When thou turnest toward good,
Christ is walking in thy wood.

When thy heart says, "Father, pardon!"
Then the Lord is in thy garden.

When stern duty wakes to watch,
Then his hand is on the latch.

But when Hope thy song doth rouse,
Then the Lord is in the house.

When to love is all thy wit,
Christ doth at thy table sit.

When God's will is thy heart's pole,
Then is Christ thy very soul.
—George Macdonald in London Spectator.

The Poison of the Cobra.

The bite of the terrible cobra of India is looked upon as meaning certain death. It is not surprising that experiments to determine the nature of this awful poison should attract wide attention when they are made in a scientific manner entitling their results to be accepted with confidence. Such experiments have recently been conducted by Mr. A. A. Kanthack. The venom was obtained by pressing the heads of living cobras, by which nerve trying operation the deadly fluid was squeezed out of the fangs.

The fluid dries very quickly and leaves a yellow substance resembling gum arabic or the dried albumen of egg, which is easily pulverized. The activity of the poison is destroyed by prolonged boiling, a concentrated solution of it withstanding the effects of boiling for an hour or two before entirely losing its poisonous action. A weak solution could be rendered innocuous by being boiled from 20 minutes to half an hour.

But of course this can give no comfort to any victim of a cobra bite, since the venom, once injected into his blood, could by no possibility be subjected to such a process of boiling.

Ammonia and chlorine water also proved capable of destroying the poison if applied to it for a considerable time in strong solutions, and carbolic acid considerably delayed its poisonous action.

Some hope had been raised that doses of strychnia might prove a means of cure, but the experiments showed that there was no foundation for this hope. So far, then, a cure for the bite of the cobra remains to be discovered.—Youth's Companion.

A Sewer Gas Destroyer.

Some of the English towns and cities have introduced a device for ventilating sewers—a Bunsen gas burner operating to heat to a high temperature a series of cast iron cones over the surfaces of which the sewer gases have to pass on their way out to the atmosphere, which by such contact are entirely destroyed. In order to obviate all danger of explosion caused by leakage, this new safety furnace consists of a series of cylindrical rings or segments, each mechanically fitted. An intermediate ring divides the combustion chamber from the vertical air passages formed between the inner and outer ring of the furnace. The heat of the furnace is conveyed to the outer ring by means of thick cast iron webs that form tiers of air channels through which the uprising sewer air passes, and the burner is supplied with air taken from the outside of the "destructor column."—New York Sun.

Frenchwomen In Trousers.

For the privilege of wearing trousers the French government charges women a tax of from $10 to $12 a year. This by no means gives every woman who is willing to pay the tax a right to wear trousers. The government instead confers the right as a tribute to great merit. Trousers are, in fact, a sort of decoration given to women as the ribbon of the Legion of Honor is given to men. The only women to whom has been granted the right to wear trousers are George Sand, Rosa Bonheur, Mme. Dieulafoy, the Parisian archæologist; Mme. Foucault, the bearded woman and two feminine stonecutters, Mme. Fourrean and La Jeannette.—New York Evening Sun.

Second-hand Plate Glass.

One of the novel business trades of Boston is that of a dealer in second-hand plate glass. Nearly all of this glass is bought by the dealer from insurance companies. The large plates of this kind of glass are insured when put in a window, and when any of them is broken the owner of the injured glass usually prefers that the insurance company should replace the broken piece rather than that he should be paid its price. The dealer in the second-hand glass contrives to utilize what remains of the unbroken part of the glass.—New York Tribune.

At the End of the Rainbow.

The fashionable woman's fashionable gown has not been a thing of beauty during the past season, and from every indication of fall and winter styles it will not soon be much lovelier. It will doubtless be more elaborate, more lavishly trimmed and built out in more astonishing fashion across the shoulders. Huge sleeves and stiff bretelles still reign, while skirts are adorned from waist to hem with ruffles, velvet, ribbon, rosettes and every sort of trimming that feminine fancy can devise. During the reign of tailor made, untrimmed gowns of a year or two ago it was prophesied that an outbreak of frippery and fol-de-rols loomed up on a not far distant horizon, and now we are surely at the end of the rainbow.—Springfield (Mass.) Homestead.

OUR FAMILY PHYSICIAN

Is a standard work, over 100,000 copies having been printed and sold. It was compiled and edited by H. R. Stout, M. D., a physician of more than national reputation. It is a plain, practical and reliable guide to the detection and treatment of all the diseases common to the country. Designed for use by people who have not made the practice of medicine a study or a business and who are not supposed to be familiar with technical phrases and names, but want information stated in plain English. Gives separately with every disease the treatment prescribed by each of the "schools" and full and explicit directions for nursing the sick, preparation of food for the sick, etc.

To know when to go after a doctor is an important thing. Nine times out of ten calling one is a useless expense, while failing to call one at the proper time may cost a life. This book contains 540 pages, bound in cloth, making an ornamental, as well as useful, addition to any library.
